

Workers Memorial Day is observed to remember those who have suffered and died on the job and to renew the fight for safe workplaces. Each year thousands of workers are killed and millions more injured or diseased because of their jobs.

More than three decades ago, Congress passed the Occupational Safety and Health Act, promising every worker the right to a safe job. Unions and our allies have fought hard to make that promise a reality—winning protections that have saved hundreds of thousands of lives and prevented millions of workplace injuries.

On Workers Memorial Day, we will continue that fight. We will fight to create good jobs in this country. We will fight for the freedom of workers to form unions, to have a voice and bargain for safe jobs, respect and a better future. We will demand that the country fulfill the promise of safe jobs.
